Preface

In the Japanese Red Cross Language Service Volunteers, we carry out "Accessible Activities".

These activities are a long-term effort spanning 40 years in 2017 (please see "History"). This site provides information to help people with disabilities even a little when visiting Japan. You can easily find sightseeing spots you want to know, categorized according to purpose or region. In the description of each facilities, we also describe the wheelchair correspondence of the nearest station, so please refer to it before visiting.

In other blogs, we introduce in detail the various sightseeing spots visited and investigated, so please refer to it.

* If you notice something in the content of the post, please contact us from the inquiry form

The surrounding areas of Tokyo station is the center of Japan and can be divided into the Marunouchi area and Yaesu area across the station.

Marunouchi was originally a residential site for Shinpan and Fudai Daimyos who were lords that were relatives of the Tokugawa family. Currently it serves as Japan’s center of politics, economics and international business. There are a lot of Head Offices of various companies, sophisticated commercial facilities and restaurants. In addition, it takes only 15 minutes’ walk from Marunouchi to the Imperial Palace.

On the other hand, Yaesu has not only a business area but a downtown distinct with Karaoke and electrical appliance stores. The Gran Roof, which is a shopping mall designed in the motif of a light sail completed in 2013, is popular among people as a new landmark.
Imperial Palace (Ootemon Gate)

First, go out of Tokyo station Marunouchi South Exit ticket gate and go down the right side slope, then turn left along the slope and go straight. When you get to an intersection in front of KITTE, turn right and cross a crosswalk. When you come to the Gyoko Street, turn left and go straight to Hibiya Street. Once you get to Hibiya Street, turn right, cross a crosswalk, turn left and cross the next crosswalk ahead. Walk with the moat on your right side, cross a crossroad at Uchibori Street and turn right. Go straight along the Oote moat on your left side and you’ll arrive around the Imperial Palace.

Nihonbashi

Nihonbashi first emerged in the 17th century, the same era when the first shogun Tokugawa Ieyasu established the Edo shogunate and improved the waterways where Nihonbashi served as a key bridge. It became Japan’s main avenues of transportation and acted as the starting point for Japan's five Gokaido roads. The Nihonbashi area has been truly the center of commerce, financial markets, and business. There are still many historical buildings and traditional shops that boast an over 100-years history.

▼Recommended route to the main spot (Wheelchair accessible route)

Nihombashi Mitsukoshi Main Store / COREDO Muromachi
Both Nihombashi Mitsukoshi Main Store and COREDO Muromachi 1,2,3 are directly connected with the underground passage of Mitsukoshimae Subway Sta. on the Ginza line (ORANGE) / Hanzomon line (PURPLE). Main Bldg.: Exit A5, Annex Bldg.: Exit B4

Nihombashi Takashimaya

Nihombashi Takashimaya is directly connected with Exit B2 of Nihombashi Subway Sta. on the Ginza Line (ORANGE) / Tozai line (SKY). Alternatively, you can walk there through Sakura-dori St. from JR Tokyo Station (Yaesu gate) in about 10 minutes

Ginza

Ginza is an area earlier westernized in central Tokyo and now Tokyo’s most polished leading shopping district. Ginza features traditional department stores, brand name shops, and luxury retailers. You can enjoy "Gin-bura", which means wandering in Ginza, particularly around Chuo-dori Ave. and Harumi-dori Ave. Chuo-dori Ave. is a pedestrian mall from 12:00-17:00(18:00) on weekends.
Recommended route to the main spot (Wheelchair accessible route)

Directions to the ground level (Recommendation) Ginza Subway Station
Marunouchi line: The elevator located between exit C5 and C7 is recommended

Ginza Mitsukoshi

Ginza Mitsukoshi is directly connected with Ginza Subway Sta. on the Ginza line (ORANGE) / Hibiya line (SILVER). If you take the Marunouchi line (RED), go to the ground level first because there are stairs on the way to the Ginza line from the Marunouchi line. Go straight for four blocks to the intersection of Chuo-dori Ave. and Harumi-dori Ave.

Kabukiza Theatre

Kabukiza Theatre is directly connected with Higashi-ginza Subway Sta. on the Ginza line and Hibiya line (SILVER) / Asakusa line (ROSE). It is about 5 minutes’ walk from Ginza Subway Station.
The Peninsula Tokyo

Address: 1-8-1 Yurakucho, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo

The Peninsula Tokyo is located in front of the outer gardens of the Imperial Palace, and it’s a three-minute walk from the Ginza station. From the Tokyo station, it’s a five-minute drive. This hotel has an ATM, a fitness center and special rooms in which you can stay with your pets. You can request for any specific barrier-free service at the time of booking in advance. Even if there aren’t any staff who can speak the language you want, a staff member from another location can help respond to your needs if you let the hotel know in advance.

The Tsukiji Outer Market is a famous wholesale market, which is representative of Japan. It is said to be the largest comprehensive market in the world. It is near busy Ginza which is a different feature from other markets. Various kinds of Japanese traditional food are traded at reasonable prices. The seafood especially is good. Many people visit there to have breakfast because the restaurants near it are open from early in the morning. The Tsukiji Outer Market is so busy with so many trucks and scooters and, the aisles are sometimes narrow that it can be a little dangerous. However, you can use a wheelchair in the market if you are accompanied by someone.

Shibuya is the origin of Japanese youth culture. You will find many famous shops, restaurants, bars, night clubs and live music clubs. It is full of the latest fashion of young people. Shibuya is definitely the place to go if you want to get the Japanese kawaii (cute) trends published in magazines. Recently many tourists come from all over the world. Situated in front of Shibuya Station are some of the district’s landmarks such as the statue of "Hachiko", "Moai" and the world's famous "Scramble Crossing".

Harajuku
Harajuku has 2 faces. One is the face of a city of the teenagers’ culture where stylish items such as assorted goods, accessories and clothes are readily available. Takeshita street is constantly crowded with shoppers. Harajuku is the place where crepes, pancakes, and many other trends started. People line up outside popular shops here and there.

The other face is the stillness and mystical energy emanating from the Meiji Shrine. There are about 100 thousand trees within an area of about 700,000 square kilometers. After walking for 10 minutes from the entrance, you can see the Main Shrine where the souls of Emperor Meiji and Empress Shoken are enshrined.

Next to Meiji Shrine, there is Yoyogi Park, which is famous for its cherry blossoms in the spring and ginkgo trees in the autumn. It has become an oasis for people. Various international events are held during weekends.

▼Recommended route to the main spot (Wheelchair accessible route)

Meiji Shrine (Meiji Jingu)
From Harajuku, JR Omotesando exit, cross Gorin bridge and the entrance is there.
From Meiji-jingumae, Chiyoda Line, Fukutoshin Line exit 2, cross Gorin bridge and the entrance is there.
Yoyogi Park
From Harajuku, Yamanote Line Omotesando exit, cross Gorin bridge and follow the road to the park entrance on the right.
From Meiji-jingumae, Chiyoda Line, Fukutoshin Line exit 2, cross Gorin bridge and follow the road to the park entrance on the right.
From Yoyogi-koen, Chiyoda Line exit 4.

Takeshita Street
From Harajuku, JR Omotesando exit, bear left towards the Yamanote Line Takeshita exit, and cross the traffic light.
From Meiji-jingumae, Chiyoda Line, Fukutoshin Line exit 2, go to the Yamanote Line Takeshita exit, and cross the traffic light.

Omotesando
Omotesando is a more sophisticated area. Artistic fashion buildings and galleries line up along the zelkova tree-lined street where you can enjoy shopping, gourmet food and art.

▼Recommended route to the main spot (Wheelchair accessible route)
Omotesando
From Meiji-jingumae, Chiyoda Line, Fukutoshin Line exit 5.
From Harajuku, JR Omotesando exit.
Address: 2-1 Dogenzaka, Shibuya-ku, Tokyo

The statue of Hachi-ko, a dog which is the most famous dog in Japan in the Shibuya Eki-Mae Plaza adjacent to the crossing is a symbol of Shibuya. It is famous as a meeting place. There is a story that Hachi-ko had been waiting for his master for 9 years after his death. It became a novel, TV drama, and a movie and made Hachi-ko the most famous Akita dog in Japan.

The Shibuya Scramble Crossing is a representative scene of Tokyo where you can see a lot of people walking from various directions. It can be used by about 3,000 people at a time and about 400,000 people in a day.

Omote-sando Station

Station information

| 1 Tokyo Metro |  |  |

Map data ©2018 Google, ZENRIN
Asakusa and Ueno have been popular among tourists from home and abroad as the place with a nostalgic downtown atmosphere. The accessibility from the nearby stations to Asakusa or Ueno is good and temples, parks, souvenir shops and restaurants attract tourists from foreign countries.

Ueno

Ueno is known as the gateway to Tokyo from northern Japan. It used to be the precinct of Kan-eiji Temple which was the Tokugawa Shogun’s family temple in the Edo Period. The center of this area is Ueno Park with various cultural facilities such as zoos, museums, galleries and so on in a natural environment. The park is also popular for cherry blossom viewing in spring.

Ameyoko shopping district developed from black markets after the Second World War sits along the railroad underpass between JR Ueno Station and Okachimachi Station. Various items from cosmetics to fresh food can be purchased at reasonable prices here.
Roads in the Ueno area are paved, wide and flat. Tourist spots in this area are close to stations and convenient for visitors. But there are some slopes and stairs which are not accessible for wheelchair users and worth checking the routes in advance.

Recommended route to the main spot (Wheelchair accessible route)

Accessibility at Ueno Station
The layered structure of JR Ueno Station may appear complicated as it has the Shinkansen platforms together with local lines. However, local line platforms for metropolitan areas are mostly on the same floor and the information maps are easy to understand. It is convenient to use the Park Exit with a slope to visit Ueno Park. There are not many elevators going down to the central gate on the 1st floor (firstly, going up to the 3rd floor by nearby elevators from the local line platforms, then use the elevator near Iriya Gate to the 1st floor), but Hirokoji Exit or Shinobazu Exit on the 1st floor are convenient for Ameyoko area access as those exits have slopes.

Asakusa
With Senso-ji Temple as its center, Asakusa has been developing as a busy district from the Edo Period. The area still preserves the atmosphere of the old Edo Period and you can feel the traditional Japanese culture making it a popular spot for tourists from home and abroad. Nakamise, a souvenir shopping street is also bustling with tourists. During spring cherry blossom season, special boat cruises (assistance for wheelchair users available) along Sumidagawa River are available and Sumida Park is known as the place of beautiful cherry blossoms.

Tokyo Sky Tree seen from Asakusa and unique buildings such as the head office of Asahi Breweries, Ltd. are attractive photographic subjects. The tourist information center in front of Kaminari-mon Gate of Senso-ji Temple provides information and maps. Various kinds of festivals are held year-round, such as Sanja-Matsuri in the middle of May, Sumidagawa River Firework Festival and Chinese Lantern Plant Market in July.

Roads are paved, wide and flat, there is no problem for wheelchair users.
Recommended route to the main spot (Wheelchair accessible route)

Accessibility at Asakusa Station
Asakusa Station of the Toei Asakusa Line is the most convenient station for wheelchair users with elevators to the ground level being equipped. However, practically speaking many tourists use the Ginza Line of Tokyo Metro. The Ginza Line has the elevator to the ground level only on platform 2. Wheelchair users can get information about the arrival platform of Asakusa Station at the boarding station, and there is an announcement about the arrival platform at Tawaramachi Station which is one stop before Asakusa station. These points should be noted because the Ginza Line is closer to Senso-ji Temple and the central part of this area.
Akihabara

Address: 3-1-13 Sotokanda, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo

Akihabara is well known as the area selling electric appliances and electronics goods, and now the center of pop culture. There are small shops dealing with small parts for geeky customers as well as mass retailers with large parking lots providing space for wheelchair users resulting in the improved accessibility in this neighborhood. Although the nearest Akihabara Station (JR) is still complicated, it is becoming access-friendly as elevators are installed. Wheelchair users are easy to get around in mass retailers, and more stores are staffed with foreign language speakers.

The accessibility from the nearest Ryogoku Station (JR) to Edo-Tokyo Museum is good. It is barrier-free inside, restrooms with wheelchair access are provided and parking spaces for people with disabilities are available. Most of the exhibited objects can be photographed and history after the Edo Period (17th to 19th century) can be learnt. The museum shops are popular amongst foreign tourists as they offer fulfilling range of Japanese souvenirs. Most of the special exhibitions as well as the permanent ones are also interesting.

Asakusa Pier

Address: 1-1-1 Hanakawado, Taito-ku, Tokyo

Asakusa Pier is the jetty for the water bus cruising Sumida-gawa River. Restrooms with wheelchair access, slopes and assistance to get on and off the boat are available. Most of the boats bound for Hinode-sanbashi Pier (near Hamamatsucho Station) make a stop at Hama-rikyu Garden on the way. During the cherry blossom season, passengers can enjoy flowers on both river banks, as the boat goes to and makes a U-turn at upstream Sumida Park and back to the pier. The explanation about the scenery from the boat is in Japanese and English making this boat cruise popular among foreign tourists.

Ameyoko

Address: 4-7-8 Ueno, Taito-ku, Tokyo

Ameyoko is the shopping street between Ueno Station and Okachimachi Station of JR, formally called Ameya Yokocho. It started as one of the black markets after World War II, selling a variety of items from brand name goods to groceries at reasonable prices. This area is especially busy towards the end of the year. The area is mostly flat and accessibility from the nearby stations is good. However, use the restrooms with wheelchair access in large stores in this neighborhood as most of the stores are small family run shops. Wheelchair users should be cautious since aisles are narrow in most of the stores.

Senso-ji Temple

Address: 2-3-1 Asakusa, Taito-ku, Tokyo

Senso-ji Temple with the Thunder Gate and Nakamise (shopping street) is popular amongst tourists from home and abroad. The origin of the temple is told that Bosatsu (Bodhisattva, a saint) caught in a fishing net in nearby Sumida-gawa River was enshrined here. The temple especially prospered during the Tokugawa Period (17th to 19th century). Buildings except the Nitenmon Gate were burnt down by air raids during World War II, and were rebuilt after the war. This area is recommended for tourists on wheelchairs too, as there are only a few slopes in this neighborhood.

Shinjuku/Ikebukuro

Shinjuku

Shinjuku is a major commercial area representing Tokyo with Shinjuku station known as the busiest station in Japan.

There are many high-rise buildings near the west gate of Shinjuku station and the Tokyo Metropolitan Government Building is located in this area. Many shoppers and visitors from overseas can enjoy shopping at some major department stores and electronics retail stores.

Common area for young people to go out. Kabukicho on the east side is an entertainment and major downtown area in Shinjuku.

The Miraina Tower which opened in March 2016 and Busta Shinjuku (Shinjuku Expressway Bus Terminal) just opened in April. They are a new landmark of Shinjuku.
Access information from Shinjuku station.

It's very hard to reach your destination in Shinjuku area if you use the wrong exit. We really recommend you to check the convenient exit for your destination in advance.

Shinjuku Fukutoshin / Tokyo Metropolitan Government office area
If you turn right in the underground passage from the JR west gate, the passage directly connects to some main buildings such as Shinjuku Mitsui bldg, Sumitomo Shinjuku bldg, Hotel Century Hyatt etc. Even though some of those buildings have slopes, they don’t have automatic doors and we recommend you to enter from the ground level. For access to the Tokyo Metropolitan Government office, please pass the Plazanard which connects to the north side of Keio Plaza Hotel (available from 6:00 to 23:00), then you can enter from the west entrance of the Tokyo Metropolitan Government office. Non-step buses are also available from JR west gate.

The underground passage connects with the Keio Department store and Odakyu department store. You can go up to the ground level if you use the elevator there. Also if you use the elevator in the Subaru bldg, you can go to Shinjuku’s skyscraper district, but please be careful during rush hours, around 9:00A.M. or 17:00P.M., because it is extremely crowded with commuters. If you use the Toei line in Shinjuku, exit 5 is the better way.

Takashimaya Shinjuku Store, Miraina Tower, Shinjuku Expressway Bus Terminal
We will check the accessibility in those new area and will update soon.

East side (Shinjuku Isetan, Kabukicho- downtown ) district
There are no elevators available to go up to the ground level in JR east gate, but you can use the elevator in LUMINE EST (shopping bldg) during their business hours. Or you can proceed to the north from JR south gate and turn to the east at Shinjuku Street. Then you can reach the shopping district like department stores or electronic shops etc. Cross Shinjuku Street to the north, go straight and cross Yasukuni Street, then you can get to Kabukicho area. Most of the shops there are not designed for people with disabilities.

Ikebukuro

Ikebukuro is one of the sub centers of Tokyo alongside Shinjuku and Shibuya.
Access information from Ikebukuro

Seibu department store is in the east and Tobu department store to the West.

Sunshine City
There are many exits in the underground passages of Ikebukuro. The elevator in front of exit 35 will get you to Sunshine City.

As you cross the Rainbow Bridge from Tokyo, you arrive at the new Tokyo waterfront sub center called "Daiba".

The "Yurikamome" from Shimbashi Station is recommended when using public transport. You can go to major facilities directly by using the deck from each station of the Yurikamome Line. From Ikebukuro, Shinjuku and Shibuya area, it is convenient to use the Rinkai Line, which directly connects from the JR Saikyo Line.

Daiba area was recently developed. Most streets are flat and wide. You can move easily. Most buildings are new and easily accessible by wheelchair.

There are a lot of shopping malls such as Decks Tokyo Beach, Aqua City Odaiba, Venus Fort, Diver City Tokyo, etc.
It is a very popular spot for tourists because there are many popular facilities for young people such as Odaiba Marine Park (artificial beach) and Palette town Ferris wheel. You can enjoy all day long.

▼Recommended route to the main spot (Wheelchair accessible route)

The deck is connected with Odaiba-kaihinkoen Station.

AQUA City ODAIBA, Fuji Television Network, Inc., Sony Explora Science, Hilton Tokyo ODAIBA, Grand Pacific Le Daiba
The deck is connected with the Daiba Station.
Palette town, MEGA WEB
The deck is connected with Aomi Station.

TOKYO BIG SIGHT
The deck is connected with Kokusai-tenjijo-seimon Station.

It is also possible to go straight across the roofed sidewalk from Kokusai-tenjijo Station.
Rainbow Bridge

Address: 3-33-19 Kaigan, Minato-ku, Tokyo (Shibaura side)

This Bridge was opened in August 1993 to connect the Tokyo Waterfront area with Central Tokyo. It’s the symbolic bridge for Odaiba. The bridge’s name was sought from the general public. The length of the bridge is 798 meters. This bridge has a two-layer structure where the upper layer is a highway. On the other hand, the lower layer is a general road and a sidewalk. This sidewalk is called Rainbow Promenade and available to anyone for free.

Yokohama

The streets of central Yokohama, from Yokohama station through Kanagawa prefectural government to Yamashita Park are flat and well-planned so that wheelchairs can move easily. This area was reclaimed in the period from the later part of the 17th century to the 19th century.

The arrival of the American Navy to Yokohama about 160 years ago triggered the city's opening of its port to foreign ships.

Foreign settlements were established where currently Chinatown exists today.

Early facilities of the Yokohama port were insufficient and they became unable to handle bigger ships. Those facilities were renewed to build tourist facilities such as museums related to the port, trade, and ships which form one of Yokohama's special features.
Minatomirai 21 district
From Ikebukuro or Shibuya, take the Tokyo Metro Fukutoshin Line through Tokyo Toyoko Line and Minatomirai Line to Minatomirai station. Go up from the platform to the ticket gates by elevator and further up into Queen’s Square or to the ground by another elevator. From Ueno, Tokyo, or Shinagawa, take the JR Ueno-Tokyo Line or Keihin-Tohoku Line, or otherwise take the Keikyu Line from Shinagawa, to Yokohama, and transfer there to Minatomirai Line via elevator.

Yamashita park, Motomachi, China town district
From Ikebukuro or Shibuya, take the Tokyo Metro Fukutoshin Line through Tokyu Toyoko Line and Minatomirai Line to Motomachi-Chukagai station. Go up from the platform to Chinatown-Yamashita Park Gates by elevator and further to Yamashita Park Exit, Chinatown Exit, or Marine-tower Exit on the ground by another elevator. From Ueno, Tokyo, or Shinagawa, take the JR Ueno-Tokyo Line or Keihin-Tohoku Line, or otherwise take the Keikyu Line from Shinagawa to Yokohama and transfer there to the Minatomirai Line via elevator.

To Shinko district, take the JR Keihin-Tohoku Line to Sakuragicho station, go down from the platform to the ground-level ticket gates and further to the district as well.
Sankeien Garden

Address: 58-1 Honmoku Sannotani, Naka-ku, Yokohama

The Sankeien Garden is a Japanese garden which has traditional Japanese buildings within. A powered wheelchair or a wheelchair with a helper can take the main route, part of which has some gravel, shelving slopes, grooves, and bumps. A tour in the Sankei Memorial building with a wheelchair is possible. An audio-visual guide panel in the building offers information of this garden’s founder and the buildings with English subtitles and audio. Each material in the exhibition rooms is accompanied by an English title, but its explanation is in Japanese only. Maccha available. A wheelchair can reach Rinshunkaku beyond the Memorial, and also the former Yanohara family house [gassho-style] beyond Kankabashi bridge through the back of Rindoan, but it may not be able to reach the three-story pagoda on top of a hill, nor the area containing five traditional Japanese buildings including Choshukaku because of the stone steps. A wheelchair user may not be able to enter the former Yanohara family house due to its doorsills and steps.

Nippon Maru is a sail training ship, built in 1930, which provides opportunities of on-board tour. Though boarding in a wheelchair is not impossible, a couple of helpers are seemingly necessary, due to a steep gangway. As some passways on the deck are narrow, travel area is limited. Explanation panels and guide announcements in English are available in some areas. Tour on the cabin decks is not possible for wheelchair users.
